A MESSAGE FROM FRANKLIN GRAHAM

In 1970, when Dr. Bob Pierce — a dear friend of my father and one of my mentors — launched an organisation he called Samaritan's Purse, he had no idea what the Lord had in store. But he was faithful to what God had called him to do, and during the past five decades we have stayed true to the calling: to aid the world's poor, sick, and suffering, and to do it in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ. In 2019, we entered our 50th year of ministry. As we celebrate this milestone, we praise God for how He has used Samaritan's Purse to advance His Kingdom.

Your gifts and prayers are crucial as we continue to reach hurting people and share the Gospel. With your support in 2019, we cared for Syrian refugees, airlifted aid to victims of Hurricane Dorian, responded to the Australian bushfires, and disciplined over 3 million children worldwide through Operation Christmas Child (OCC). Most importantly, we proclaimed the Good News that "the Son of Man has come to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10). Thank you, and God bless you.

Sincerely,

Franklin Graham

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD KARL FAASE

Samaritan's Purse Australia and New Zealand is a part of a global network of international offices based in USA, Canada, UK and Germany, as well as field offices in over 15 countries. Samaritan's Purse is a non-profit, Christian organisation meeting the physical needs of victims of war, famine, natural disaster, poverty and disease with the aim of demonstrating God's love.

I'm deeply grateful for our staff and volunteers who worked across all of our activities during the 2019, performing a number of valuable administrative and support roles. In particular, many of these roles are in support of the Operation Christmas Child program and Australian Disaster Relief.

I am thankful to our faithful supporter base that has continued to pray and donate their time and money during a challenging economic environment. Without this on-going support, Samaritan's Purse would not be able to continue our work around the world helping people in Jesus' name.

Sincerely,

Karl Faase

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR DAVE INGRAM

For 50 years, Samaritan's Purse has brought relief and development assistance to some of the most vulnerable people around the world. Here are some highlights of how we partnered with our supporters to provide aid and assistance to people in Australia, South East Asia and other parts of the world during 2019:

- Samaritan's Purse built our 29th school in Cambodia, with more being built in 2020
- Provided relief to refugees in Syria
- Responded to Hurricane Dorian in the Bahamas and Cyclone Idai in Mozambique particularly through the deployment of Australian Disaster Assistance Response Team (DART) medical volunteers
- With the help of hundreds of amazing volunteers, we collected and transported over 273,000 gift-filled shoeboxes to Cambodia, The Philippines, Fiji and PNG
- From September 2019 through to March 2020 we responded to the Australian bushfires in Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria

I'm especially thankful for all who supported our work during the unprecedented bushfire crisis through your financial contributions and volunteer activities. This was a long, difficult season which was disastrous for thousands of Australians. With your support we were able to demonstrate God's love and compassion to those who have lost so much, which really is at the core of our mission.

In Christ,

Dave Ingram

SHOEBOX GIFTS OPEN HEARTS

Around the world, millions of boys and girls received shoebox gifts and heard the Gospel through Operation Christmas Child.

For the past 20 years, Pastor José has trekked up a dangerous mountain road to reach the village of La Laguna — home of the indigenous Nahuatl people of western Mexico. He has preached the Gospel to this unreached people group, praying that the seeds he was planting would take root.

Despite his faithful ministry, the Nahuatl remained closed to the message of Jesus. But Pastor José continued to pray and believe that God was at work.

The turning point came in the form of brightly wrapped shoebox gifts. Operation Christmas Child came to La Laguna and, hand-in-hand with Pastor José, held an outreach event for the children in the village. Boys and girls experienced the love of Christ in a tangible way through the shoebox gifts, and dozens of them prayed to receive Him as Lord and Saviour.

Pastor José began teaching The Greatest Journey, our follow-up discipleship program for children who receive shoeboxes, training the children in how to grow in their faith and share the Gospel with friends and family. Parents have also come to faith through the witness of their children.

In 2019, a special worship service was held to dedicate the first church building in La Laguna. The service included songs of worship, Bible reading, and a special prayer for the children in La Laguna.

“Operation Christmas Child shoebox gifts are Gospel opportunities. What an incredible story of how God has used something simple to reach children and to teach them about discipleship,” said Edward Graham, who participated in the church dedication service. “May this church go out into these mountains and proudly proclaim the Name of Christ.”

The service also celebrated the baptisms of several children who became Christians through Operation Christmas Child.

“This church will be a beacon of light and living hope in Christ alone,” said Jim Harrelson, vice president of Operation Christmas Child. “The Lord is preparing His people to take the Gospel forward.”

We thank God that the Gospel is advancing among unreached people groups like the Nahuatl. These people groups, with a population of less than 2 percent evangelical Christian, usually live in remote areas and have often never had an opportunity to hear the Gospel — not even once.

A church was also dedicated this year among the Himba, an unreached people group in Namibia. The church started after children came to faith through Operation Christmas Child and The Greatest Journey. As the children shared the Good News with family and friends, more people came to faith and the church continued to grow.

A GENERATION OF CHRIST FOLLOWERS

Shoebox recipients discover who Jesus is through The Greatest Journey, our follow-up discipleship program.

A girl from Botswana named Queen thought that she was too poor to attend church. She was afraid that people would laugh at her for not having a nice dress to wear. Teachers from a local church reassured Queen and invited her to a special outreach event where she learned about Jesus for the first time. In addition, she received an Operation Christmas Child shoebox gift containing school supplies, toys, and hygiene items including a toothbrush, which she didn't have. The Gospel celebration made Queen feel welcome, loved, and eager to participate in The Greatest Journey, our 12-lesson discipleship program for shoebox recipients. Through the lessons, she learned more about Jesus Christ and His gift of salvation. After receiving Him as her Saviour and Lord, she said, "Now, I want to help my friends by teaching them about God and what He has done." She started at home by using The Greatest Journey to tell her family about Jesus. Queen's mother, grandmother, and siblings began going to church with her. They study the Bible together and read The Greatest Journey to help them apply Biblical principles. Queen is among more than 2.2 million children who made decisions for Christ through The Greatest Journey in 2019. Last year, over 3 million boys and girls graduated from the 12-lesson series, taught by more than 218,000 trained volunteers.

MAKING DISCIPLES, STARTING CHURCHES

Ten years ago, we launched The Greatest Journey at Good Shepherd Church in Pifo, Ecuador.

"It was God's miracle to ignite a fire for evangelism and discipleship in this church," said Pastor Ramiro Baez. Since 2009, the congregation has started five new churches in and around the city through The Greatest Journey.

The evangelistic fire spread as we expanded The Greatest Journey globally in 2010. In all, more than 100 churches have been started in Ecuador. We praise God that He is using The Greatest Journey to raise up as many as 1,000 new churches around the world each year!

"Before, we had never heard of Jesus. Now, we seek God alone in prayer and worship," said Pastor Kuyelia, leader of a church that was planted in Namibia.

During the past 10 years, more than 11.2 million boys and girls have made decisions for Christ through The Greatest Journey! Over 16.6 million children have graduated from the program, having learned how to be faithful followers of Jesus and share the Gospel with their family and friends.

AUSTRALIAN BUSHFIRE RELIEF

As fires blazed through local communities, Samaritan's Purse worked to help disaster-affected families recover.

For months, dark smoke clung to the horizon in Australia. Record-breaking bushfires swept across 131 Australian regions, destroying thousands of homes and burning more than 20 million hectares of land. Scorching high temperatures, strong winds and years of drought stirred the intense fires to ignite state after state, killing more than 30 people.

From September 2019 through to March of 2020 Samaritan's Purse helped communities in Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria to get back on their feet. Samaritan's Purse teams assisted homeowners by clearing debris, cutting up and removing fallen trees and branches, and sifting through the ashes to salvage personal belongings. We also distributed Fire Recovery Kits, which included shovels, rakes, hammers, gloves, face masks and overalls.

"Australia often has bushfires this time of year but never to this extent. We've had a team on the ground for months, helping families affected by the bushfires," said Dave Ingram, Executive Director. "We are grateful to all our Samaritan's Purse volunteers who have undertaken the huge task of assisting homeowners to start the journey of rebuilding their lives."

Wayne Johnston and his family fought the flames as much as they could, watching the raging fires grow rapidly as it roared through their land in Bairnsdale, Victoria.

"I still remember the night when I was here with my son and the next minute, all of a sudden it came as a big grass fire over the side of this house," Wayne recalled. "Our plan was that we would stay on the property and fight as long as we could safely."

Wayne's family is one of more than 160 hurting families in 48 communities across three states that our disaster relief team helped clean up from the ruins of their homes. While his home was destroyed with many lost many family heirlooms, Wayne was thankful to have a team alongside him, speeding up the long recovery process.

"I really thank Samaritan's Purse and all the people who have given up their time to come here, help clean up and get us [on] track [to] getting some normality to life because that's what it's like - you just feel like you want some normality to happen again," said Wayne. "That's the motivating force behind Samaritan's Purse, is reaching out in the name of the Lord and being the hands and feet of Jesus Christ."

Please pray for the families who have lost so much and for our volunteers who helped bring hope in the middle of this disaster.

"Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

RELIEF FOR SYRIAN REFUGEES

As desperate families crowded into Iraqi refugee camps, Samaritan's Purse worked to meet their needs in Jesus' Name.

In mid-October, Sanaz's neighbourhood in Syria transformed into a war zone. She fled with her husband and 18-month-old daughter as airstrikes decimated their community.

They found shelter in a refugee camp in northern Iraq, but the horrific memories followed them there. Using her fingers to keep count, she listed name after name of people she knew who were killed in the fighting. Seven of them were family members. Many are still buried under the rubble.

"They rained fire above us," she said. "We lost everything. They took our dignity, and we ran." Angry and heartbroken, Sanaz mourns what her life used to be and what she dreamed for her family — before they became refugees.

Sanaz had struggled to get pregnant. She said, "After 10 years of marriage, I finally got this daughter. Now I have to raise my daughter in the fields," referring to Bardarash, the massive refugee camp situated in the desert.

Our teams are working in northern Iraq to bring life-saving aid to families in need. Samaritan's Purse has distributed warm winter boots to more than 2,000 children, provided 1,000 families with water storage tanks, and rehabilitated 567 latrines. In addition to our work in Bardarash, Samaritan's Purse is supporting local partners in northeast Syria with critical relief supplies including thousands of blankets, sleeping mats, and winter coats.

Sanaz and her family want to return to Syria. Despite the fact that everything was destroyed, they still hope to go back to their hometown and raise their daughter there. For now, they live in the unknown.

As Samaritan's Purse disaster response specialists met their physical needs, they also encouraged Sanaz and her husband, offering hope — something that is noticeably absent within the camp.

"Thank God for all of the help we have received," Sanaz said. "You greeted us with open arms." Tens of thousands of people, like Sanaz and her family, have been displaced by the fighting in Syria.

HELPING VICTIMS OF HURRICANE DORIAN

Samaritan's Purse rushes aid to the storm-ravaged islands of the Bahamas.

Hurricane Dorian had crippled medical facilities throughout the region. To help meet critical needs, we set up our Emergency Field Hospital, which became the only working large-scale medical facility across the northern Bahamas. Over the course of our response, Samaritan's Purse provided care to nearly 8,000 hurricane survivors.

Our doctors and nurses worked around the clock to care for critically ill patients, providing life-saving care and demonstrating Christ's love. "They need to know there are people who will come alongside them to help carry their burden," said Melanie Wubs, clinical director. "And we do it in Jesus' Name. He is the only real hope any of us has."

Daniel Minns and his family huddled together in their home while Hurricane Dorian roared around them. The winds started tearing the roof from the house, so they waited until the eye of the storm passed overhead to run across the street to Daniel's brother's house.

"It was terrible. We've never had anything like this. We've had cruel storms before, but not like this," Daniel recalled. When the roof came off of his brother's home, everyone ran to a church down the street, where they hunkered down until the next day.

When Hurricane Dorian passed, Daniel returned to his property to find the home he had lived in for 40 years uninhabitable. The roof was torn away and the damaged house was filled with destroyed belongings. His family is now living in a toolshed and using a Samaritan's Purse tarp to keep the weather out. All of the homes around him are damaged, if not totally gone, and he said it's hard to see neighbours he cares so much about walking such a painful road. But Daniel knows that God will see them through. "You don't get through this without the Lord," he said.

Daniel's family is one of more than 16,700 families that received a shelter tarp from Samaritan's Purse. After Hurricane Dorian passed, we airlifted 327 tonnes of relief supplies — including heavy-duty tarps, water filters, hygiene kits, generators, and other necessities — to the Bahamas. Helicopters flew aid to outlying areas that were hard-hit by the storm and difficult to reach by road.

Please pray for people who are still struggling in the storm's aftermath, and for our teams as they serve in Jesus' Name.

EBOLA RESPONSE

COMPASSIONATE CARE FOR EBOLA PATIENTS

Last year, an outbreak of the Ebola virus gained momentum in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, infecting more than 3,300 people and leaving over 2,200 dead. Samaritan's Purse opened an Ebola Treatment Center (ETC) in Komanda, where we treated more than 600 people. Our teams also provided preparedness training, and supplies for hospitals and clinics in the regions where confirmed cases were being reported.

Beyond caring for people suffering from the deadly and terrifying virus, our staff and local pastors demonstrated Christ's love with patients. A man named Kavoro was the first patient we treated at the ETC. Although his Ebola test came back negative for the virus, Kavoro left the treatment center with a story of spiritual healing. He prayed with Pastor Joseph, a member of our psychosocial support team, and received Christ as Saviour. "When I came here I was in a bad situation, but now I am strong," Kavoro said. "I am strong now because Jesus helped me."

MOZAMBIQUE RELIEF

HELP FOR CYCLONE VICTIMS

Last March, Cyclone Idai struck Mozambique, bringing 161 km/h winds and torrential rain. Small, rural areas were swallowed up by flooding and impoverished families lost what little they had: homes, crops, and livelihoods. Samaritan's Purse launched an immediate response, airlifting 144 tonnes of aid to the hardest-hit areas. Our teams distributed shelter materials, blankets, water filters, and other necessities to more than 15,000 families. To meet the overwhelming need for medical care, Samaritan's Purse also established our Emergency Field Hospital in Buzi — a town that had been completely covered in floodwater. Equipped with an outpatient clinic, pharmacy, operating room, and inpatient ward, the field hospital made it possible for our medical staff to care for a wide variety of patient needs. We also sent mobile medical teams to hard-to-reach areas where patients were in need but unable to make the journey to our field hospital. During the course of our response, more than 5,700 patients received medical care in Jesus' Name.

A BRIGHT FUTURE FOR CAMBODIA

Cambodia communities are flourishing with new schools and school supplies built and provided by Samaritan's Purse.

When the community of Kcheay in Cambodia was given approval to open a school by the government, the villagers started constructing make-shift sheds to accommodate the classes for the new secondary school. While the make-shift sheds protected students from the heat, the dark rooms were cramped and unable to withstand the rainy season, which caused continual disruption to classes.

The students at Kcheay, together with the school staff and whole community now rejoice in the new school building that Samaritan's Purse constructed. With the new school building, their hope for a brighter future is in sight. The new building gives the students the determination to pursue secondary education with more confidence. "We are really thankful to Samaritan's Purse for their help to our students," said Mrs. Nioy Seyneun, the school principal. "Last time, we received the beautiful concrete building for our primary school and now another beautiful concrete building for the secondary school. Our students are now more desirous that they could pursue their dreams to finish their studies and someday become professionals and help their parents stop going to Thailand and work for a living. They are hoping that one day the cycle of

"Call to Me, and I will answer you, and show you great and mighty things."
— JEREMIAH 33:3

poverty in their family will be broken." The school at Kcheay is the 29th school that Samaritan's Purse has built in Cambodia in an effort to support small rural communities struggling to provide education to some of their most vulnerable. Samaritan's Purse education program came to the aid of Kcheay to help train teachers, school principals, literacy coaches, and volunteer teachers so they can be effective in classrooms and in managing the school. The training included the use of literacy toolkits, making lesson plans and school management. Please pray for the education of the students in Cambodia and that Samaritan's Purse can continue providing the training and support required to help students and teachers flourish.

SUPPORTING THE VULNERABLE IN MYANMAR

Samaritan's Purse provides training and support to the broken hearted.

On a sunny day in February, Seng Pan arrived at a Myanmar bus station, looking dazed and confused. Her aunt who met her there was alarmed at the state in which she found her. Her aunt realised that something had completely changed since the last time they had met a year earlier.

Seng Pan had no memory of her time in China, and her speech and actions were incoherent, indicating severe trauma and mental health issues. Her behaviour had become unpredictable and often made her family and those around her uncomfortable. It quickly became clear that she needed some serious help. Her unpredictable behaviour had escalated to the point where the family had to create a separate space for her to live next to their house. Her mental health had noticeably declined, and she refused to speak to anyone. Failing to sleep and eat regularly, she became thin and weak. Her family tried to take care of her as best as they could, but they did not know what more they could do.

The community were also concerned about her unhealthy state. Seng Pan's family attended a Migration Education and Trafficking Awareness training facilitated by Samaritan's Purse staff in her community. As her aunt listened to the trainers describe what trauma is and how victims of human trafficking can experience severe trauma with negative effects to their mental health, she thought of Seng Pan. She listened carefully as they explained how Samaritan's Purse offers reintegration support to trafficking victims. Approaching staff after the training, she relayed Seng Pan's situation and expressed her concern, asking if there was anything the staff could do to help. The staff agreed to meet with Seng Pan's family to assess how support could be provided.

As the staff met with the family, it became evident that Seng Pan was exhibiting behaviours indicating past sexual exploitation and suggesting that she may be a trafficking victim. They provided her family with general psychoeducation, explaining how the family could care for her emotional well-being in a way that would not cause her further harm. The Samaritan's Purse team offered to provide support to allow her to go to a mental health clinic, see a psychiatrist, and receive medication as well as future counselling, and the family gratefully agreed.

Staff then connected with the rest of the Samaritan's Purse counter-trafficking team to discuss how this girls and her family could be best supported. The team spent time praying specifically for Seng Pan and other survivors being supported, asking God to bring healing and restoration.

One month later, the staff returned to check in with the family. They were amazed at the difference they saw in her. In just one month, she looked completely changed, dressing herself, keeping up with her own hygiene and taking care of herself better. She began to recall her experiences in China, confirming that she had been trafficked, and she was willing to talk about her situation. Seng Pan agreed to continue taking medication to aid in her continued improvement.

The team praised God for His faithfulness in answering their prayers for Seng Pan and continue to hold her up in prayer.

"Someone who didn't speak a single word, didn't take a shower and didn't remember anything a month ago, started to speak, dress herself, and meet with us this time," Reintegration Officer Sandy Lian expressed. "It's all because of God who spoke to the person's heart."

Please prayer for those who are hurting and broken that God may bring them restoration.

IMPROVING THE HEALTH OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Samaritan's Purse is helping families improve their health through programs for nutrition, clean water, and support for pregnant women.

“When the baby came out, he had no heartbeat. We had to do CPR immediately,” said Dr. Felix Mugalla. “Eventually, he started breathing, but slowly and irregularly.” Theresa had been coming to Maban County Hospital in South Sudan throughout her pregnancy for prenatal care. But this time, Dr. Mugalla and his team knew something was wrong. The baby’s heart rate was too low, so they rushed Theresa into the operating room for an emergency C-section.

The little boy was successfully delivered, but he was in distress. After the baby received CPR and began breathing again, the hospital staff hooked him up to oxygen. Then, they prayed and waited. As the baby steadily improved, Dr. Mugalla knew the reason why: “God is the One who did it.”

Maban County Hospital in northeast South Sudan serves about 200,000 people, of which nearly 150,000 are refugees who were displaced during years of war and violence. The hospital, built and supported by Samaritan's Purse, is the only full-service referral health facility in the entire region. “It is also the only facility where Theresa could have an emergency C-section. I thank God and Samaritan's Purse,” said Sobit, Theresa’s husband. “If there was no hospital here, my son might not be alive.”

The regular check-ups and guidance Theresa received while pregnant likely also saved her baby’s life. When she first came to Maban, Nurse Pauline told her to get to the hospital if she felt sick at any point. Theresa followed Pauline’s advice and was treated for malaria about a month before she gave birth to her son. If untreated, parasite-borne illnesses like malaria can lead to serious complications and cause an expectant mother to lose her baby.

Pauline and Dr. Mugalla praise God that the urgent physical needs of mothers and pregnant women are being met in Maban. These women, and all patients who come to the hospital, receive compassionate care in Jesus’ Name.

COMPASSIONATE CARE IN JESUS’ NAME

Samaritan's Purse supports Christian hospitals, bringing physical and spiritual care to people worldwide.

During the height of malaria season, the pediatric ward at Galmi Hospital in Niger spills over with young patients. One of these precious children was a girl named Rachida, who was already in a coma when her mother brought her to the hospital.

“Often there are two children with malaria in one bed, with one child getting a blood transfusion for severe anemia while another is having a seizure,” said Dr. Steve Hoyt, a family medicine physician. “In the next bed over, there may be a child who has been in a coma for several days because of malaria affecting the brain.”

Steve and his wife, Katie, an obstetrician/gynecologist, came to Galmi in 2018 through World Medical Mission’s Post-Residency Program. Although it is difficult to see patients suffer, especially children, the Hoyts are grateful that God is using them to share His love and to help the desperately ill. And they rejoice to see His hand of healing on a daily basis.

In 2019, we sent healthcare volunteers on 800 short-term trips to serve at 38 mission hospitals. We were excited to launch the Surgery Subspecialty Teams Program last year, deploying teams of medical volunteers to perform procedures and training in orthopedics, urology, and other specialised fields.

We also saw the Post-Residency Program flourish with the addition of 10 doctors and two dentists who will be assigned to work for two years at our partner hospitals, where they will be mentored in preparation for long-term missionary service. Since 2004, more than 185 physicians like Steve and Katie Hoyt have served through the program.

In addition, our biomedical technicians installed and helped maintain equipment in 29 mission hospitals, and we shipped 171 tonnes of medical supplies to 24 hospitals and clinics in 21 countries.
